Sun in zodiac

The Sun generates life as well as producing the light. This planet (also called "Luminary" and "the Star") embodies the center, our ego, core and uniqueness of the individual. The Sun means our personality and how the surrounding world imagines us. What is more, the Sun proclaims an individual's originaive ability and power to struggle with routine problems.

Masculine powers, paternity and other male influences are conducted by the Sun. The Sun also favors children. Its energy is so powerful that it maintains the ascendancy, leadership, tenacity, individuality and spirit. Being influenced by the Star, we find out how to demonstrate ourselves to the world.

The Sun is kinglike, so it keeps and rules the regal authority and the superiors. Luminary also masters our health and wealth. Sun light and beams saturate individuals with strength, inspiration, motivation and power of will. The Sun is the one that regulates the planets and possesses the center in astrological knowledge.

Each sign has approximately a month of the privilege to be visited by the Sun during its annual trip to the 12 signs of the zodiac. The Sun's might is believed to be pure male energy and it guides Leo and the Fifth House.

Leo Sun Sign

The fifth sign of the zodiac system is Leo. These individuals are not that easy to miss, as they adore being in the center of all happenings. This is their major feature. They like making a strong impression upon others. Leos are ambitious and targeted to complete any task. They are original and funny. Though they like attention, they are not that selfish and would share pleasant emotions with others.

Their love for being the center of life is explained by their symbol - Lion, meaning they are leaders. They want to step out of the crowd, be strong, and rule their own universe. During the process of work, they possess great effectuality, are organized, and complete any project.

Leos are ruled by the Sun - the central stellar body; consequently, Lions like to be the center of the universe. Their aim is to enjoy success whenever they put their foot forward. They are also very loyal and have a sense of honor. They are also enormously proud and very romantic.

Their element is Fire. Heat surrounds these personalities; they are fearless and mighty. They are not afraid of challenges. If you have any troubles with completing this or that task, call a Leo and he will do everything the best way. Leos are dynamic, fast at thinking and reaction, and self-confident. They are charming and attract other people. But they have a tendency to waste money, so be watchful when giving him or her big sums of money.

Leo-born individuals enjoy fun and playing different outdoor games, especially group competitions. Football, hockey or poker, any other game where one can prevail. They enjoy them all. They also like to show their strength at gym. You can charge yourself with their energy.

These people are also quite devoted and romantic identities. They are initiative and hot to handle. Be watchful when starting relations with them. Be sure you can keep up with their hot nature.

The major features of the Leos are their smart mind, which makes them very creative identities. They are natural leaders, and you can fully trust them in business or relations. They will complete any task and will not let you down. Their energy attracts others, and you will simply have no time to be bored with them.

Leo and Independency:

These individuals are utterly irrespective. They need to have something under control and somebody who would admire and appreciate them. They are commonly successful alone, but it would be better to have an audience and followers who would praise them. Loneliness is not for these folks.

Leo and Friends:

Different folk are attracted to these identities due to their heat for life and high spirits. They have a beautiful capability to encourage and maintain the others when tough times come. They are very sociable; though they do not always want it, many naturally stick to them. It's difficult not to like them, as they are commonly good balanced, live in harmony, and are realists. They have no habit of looking into the past, only ahead for a brighter future. Often, you may see them being egoistic, self-absorbed. They'll be always there to reach out a helping hand. They are utterly faithful companions. They are not greedy, and it's easy to forgive those who once abused them. They esteem the differences between people.

Leo and Biz:

When talking about biz, outstanding qualities of Leo's should be mentioned. Commonly, when leading any project, a huge success awaits them. Often, it may induce confrontation inside the collective. Anyway, after the final results, those who were against their leadership thank them for a good job. Leo-born identities lightly cooperate within a collective. They are not single players. Notwithstanding, collective work doesn't mean equality. They hate receiving commands. They adore giving orders. But commonly, there are no difficulties for others to receive orders from these folks, as they are just, judge and respect everybody equally, and they are not haughty. They like drama, have a sense in biz, and act extraordinary. Watching them labor; one can notice they make a tremendous difference inside the collective, constantly enhancing productivity. They are profligate, loving to be surrounded with luxurious things, hitting only for the best and nothing of lesser quality. Still, they deserve all this luxury thanks to their huge achievements.

Character:

These individuals love novel and extra-special things; they disdain boring, continuously repeating routine, and on occasion, when they have to deal with it, they eagerly initiate something exciting or dramatic. They may so-to-speak make something out of nothing to satisfy their character. They possess a nice feature of avoiding all negative aspects and influences, trying to always remain merry and positive. These folks are proud. They always try to treat everybody equally and honestly; when meeting another dominator in their way, they disrespect him or her. Here, they will be extra-hard-nosed. Often, Leo-born folks have a demanding and commanding character, childish behavior, but this occurs only if somebody is standing in their way. They act as real lions, protecting their tribe and territory.

Leo Inside:

These individuals are over-sensitive, but commonly, you won't notice it, as they thoroughly hide it. They require praises and adulations. Their "I" needs consideration and idolatry. Frequently, they act egoistically, but thanks to their warm and kind hearts, they can control it, preventing the development of unstoppable selfishness. One would never figure out there's something wrong with them, as they are proud people and would better suffer silently in their loneliness. Their biggest secret is that they thirst to be needed.

Leo in a Nutshell:

Leo's symbol is the Lion, and it suits them excellently. They wield the realm, defending and nourishing it. They are highly respectful, gentle, and dedicated. The kingdom can be everything - job, home, partner etc. They rule it all. They can't sit silently without making a single noise. They let everyone know about their existence. They act directly in the center of all happenings, fueling everybody with their enormous energy. They attract others with their cleverness, fascination, and smart conversations, knowing what to say and how to present it. They are all about luxury. They just adore expensive and prodigal things. The possession of precious things only emphasizes their public positions, lifts them to a higher quality level. They will do all that is needed and can be done to defend their repute. These identities are open-handed, gracious, and open-hearted. They would fight back if they are attacked, but they aren't greedy and are easily forgiving. They may waste nice sums of money, but they won't waste a single day. In the end of each day, they have to do something significant to be content that it wasn't spent for naught. Action is always better than calmly sitting, and they would prefer to face whatever comes than hide. They aren't impetuous, but if it is needed, they'll be there ready to rock!

Dating Leo-Women:

For a nice start, you can praise them and show your idolatry. If she doesn't receive this, you may forget about a future. Don't try staring at other women. You ought to be entirely hers; dedicate yourself to her. This type always thinks she is simply the best of the best, and there can be no talk about competition. What is the sense of competing with the others, as she is the best? But be ready to challenge other men. She attracts many men, intentionally or not, thanks to her incandescent identity. This seems too complicated for you, but such woman would always keep you up, maintained, fueled with energy, and make your life intriguing and splendid. She is kind-hearted and adores adventures. You'll have lots of fun with her. Get prepared that she would rule as she is a dominator. But don't think she will go ahead all the time. She requires a strong-willed man who would protect, pamper, and lead her. Leo-woman is a perfect choice for those men who like adventures, aren't afraid of accepting challenges, and have a powerful, but not too demanding character. She needs passion concerning all around and thirsts to be the best whenever it's possible.

Dating Leo-Men:

Leo-man falls in love lightly, but this state lasts for only a short-term period. He's afraid of losing the connection with reality because of love, so he requires a woman that would keep him close to the ground, not allowing him to lose the actual course of events, for he has grand plans for the future and wants to bring them alive. They may appear negligent and clannish concerning love, but it's not actually what you think. Give him idolatry and maintenance and you'll be surprised how gently he would treat you, with full dedication and faithfulness. Often, he may seem like an unemotional stone, but actually, he is over-sensitive. He requires loyalty, honesty, and encouragement. Some see him as a great egoist, but if you risk delving deeper, you will find out how tender, gentle, and sentimental he may be. He will choose a woman that would be entirely his alone, and would maintain and approve his actions, give him praise. It's also vital to know that Leo-men think they are always right, so you'd better learn how to overlook their errors and misfortunes. And finally, if you have a hold on him and you have a long-lasting relationship, then teach him that he's not the only one in the whole universe. Engage him and afterwards make all equal.

Attraction for Leo:

Ravishment is a clue you need to receive Leo. Marvel at them, and they'll be entirely yours. They get easily attracted as they like the praise and adoration of others, and if giving this all to them, you'll be important to them. Many praises and compliments should help you hugely. Sometimes, you may cheat on what you're saying them, but they won't bother with that, because they need pure attention to their personality. Try to be funny and clever; they like entertainment. This would bring you benefits and additional points. These folks don't like simple things; they prefer lavish ones. Suggest only something specific and only the best; no second-best propositions would be accepted, and you would surely have a good time.

Leo Erogenous Zone:

The back is their most exciting and hottest area. You may start with a compliment of the strength of their back, then gently scratch it and give a sensual massage. In such a way, you'll win additional points. You may use special aroma oils or something of the kind. This is how you'll take the chill off and prepossess them.
